

8th JEUX OCEANIA VETERANS D'ATHLETISME

by HELEN TOBIN

The Games were officially opened by the Minister of Sport on Saturday 6 July at the ceremony held in the excellently appointed stadium at the athletic track in Papeete. It was not without some relief that the Games were being opened due to the uncertainties over the past, three weeks of whether they would even be staged. The athletes and organisers could now relax with the knowledge that everything was now underway and that competition in the 8th Oceania Games was actually going to happen. The athletes marched into the stadium behind a bearer holding the name of their country. They were led in by Fiji, hosts of the last Oceania Games after which speeches of welcome were made before the Minister declared that the Games were open and competition could begin.

Competition got underway on Sunday, the following morning, when the first event on the programme, cross country races for men and women was held at the hippodrome (racecourse) about 1km from the stadium. For many of the NZ team members who were competing the course was close enough to walk or jog to from their accommodation at the Royal Tahitien Hotel, and for the great band of supporters the distance presented no problems for them in coming along to watch the races. It was a good spectators course with just enough in the way of shade for everyone to have some shelter as the sun rose higher during the morning to beat down on the winter skins of the southern visitors.

The course took athletes on circuits around the actual racecourse then through the barriers to a relatively short incline before negotiating some infield running of the track which included two low jumps. There were a few rough patches with stones, but generally the running surface was hard and easy enough to negotiate.

The 6km womens race was conducted first in warm conditions and as was to be expected the field was dominated by the black uniform of New Zealand. Sue Waru showed continuing good form to win the event outright.

The men raced an extra lap to give them a 9km distance. Again it was the black of New Zealand to the fore with some good New Zealand team running for the first few kilometres getting Malcolm Clark off to a good supportive start to his fine overall first placing. A second gold medal for that household in two hours!

The heat had increased somewhat during the mens race causing a few spinning heads, but overall considering it was raced in tropic climes the conditions were OK. Coming from a New Zealand winter was just a bit of a wake up for the body!

The course and officials were faultless. Corners were marked with tape, officials were on each bend with a flag, and good hand directions ensured that the correct course was adhered to. The Tahitian organisers did a fine job. Our New Zealand team members also played a large role in the success of the cross country day and a vote of thanks must go in particular to Non Stadia Manager Morrie Hinton along with Stewart Foster who both assisted with time keeping, Jim Tobin who designed the course at short notice and to the vocal support of New Zealanders around the course who also doubled as drink stop personnel.

Sunday afternoon and evening saw the competition back at the track for the pentathlon and the preliminary rounds of some events. Monday was a lay-day and many took the opportunity to visit nearby Moorea - a lovely tropical island about 14km to the north of Tahiti.

The next three days were all go on the track with a 10km road walk thrown in for good measure. Competition generally started at 4.00pm and went on into the evening under floodlights. Friday was another lay-day but for some it was 'another day at the office' as they attended the OAVA General Assembly.

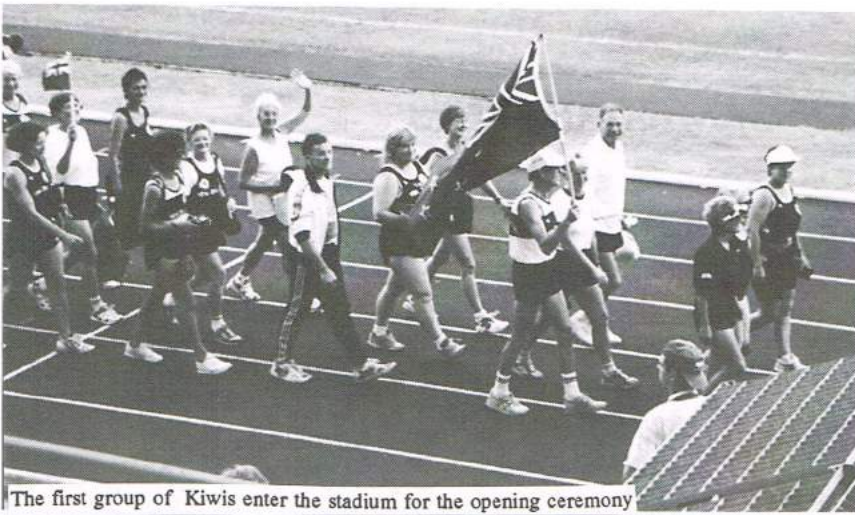

Saturday dawned clear and sunny and very warm (as is the norm in Tahiti) but the humidity was at a reasonable level for running the road race. Originally this event was scheduled to be a half marathon, but with the short lead in time to get authority to close roads and measure a longer course the distance was modified to 15km based on the athletic track. It was a two lap course taking the competitors through a few small local villages up a gradual incline of a valley. The trees along the way gave the runners a surprising amount of shade and it was only when the sun got higher that the last few kilometres became more exposed.

The Tahitian organisers did a great job with marshals armed with flags marking each intersection and each corner that had poor visibility and could be dangerous for the runners. The course was clearly marked with arrows, and there were also kilometre marks (of very dubious accuracy) on the road

On the Saturday afternoon it was back to the track for the weight pentathlon and the relays.

The final event was a fun relay with teams comprising a mixture of competitors from each country. This was followed by the low key but moving closing ceremony and the invitation for all competitors to attend the ninth Oceania Games in New Zealand in January 1998.

Following are the detailed results. Some errors in the preliminary official results have been found and corrected. However some may still exist so it is a case of errors and omissions excepted.
